

Dear Members and Friends of First Presbyterian Church,

Tell me something good.

It's a phrase we hear often—and one that seems especially fitting for First Presbyterian Church. When we sometimes feel overwhelmed by difficult news, there is good news to be found here: in the children who skip down the aisle for the children's moment; in the voices of our choir and the beauty of the arts; in meals prepared and backpacks filled; in people who find hospitality, friendship, and a place to grow in faith.

This year, our stewardship theme is "Tell Me Something Good — And Be a Part of It," because the good things happening at First Presbyterian don't happen by accident. They happen because generous people like you give your time, your talents, your prayers, and your financial support.

Your pledge makes good things possible.

Your generosity allows us to be a telling presence in our community—to be the hands and feet of Christ as we collect food for the hungry, fill backpacks for students, prepare meals for Josephine's Place and the Rescue Mission, plant trees in the community, and support organizations like Wellspring.

Your generosity helps us nurture children, youth, and adults as we grow in faith together. It supports worship, music, drama, education, fellowship, and the many ways we create a community where people can encounter God and one another.

And your generosity is an investment in tomorrow. The babies and children who are with us today will become our teenagers, our young adults, and our future leaders. What we give today helps create the church they will inherit tomorrow.

Every pledge is a vote for hope. Every gift has the potential to become good news for someone else.

As we look toward 2027, we invite you to prayerfully consider your pledge to First Presbyterian Church. If you have never made a pledge before, we invite you to make this the year you begin. If you already pledge, we invite you to renew your commitment and, if you are able, consider increasing your gift. Every pledge matters. Every gift makes a difference.

Please join us on Sunday, October 4, as we celebrate the good news of First Presbyterian and dedicate our pledges for the coming year. If you are able to be with us, please bring your completed pledge card with you. If you are unable to be with us that Sunday, you may return your pledge card in the enclosed self-addressed envelope or make your pledge online using the QR code (on the enclosed pledge card).

Thank you for all the ways you are already part of the life and ministry of First Presbyterian Church.

With gratitude,

The 2027 Stewardship Team
